

OPPRESSION.

There is not a class of people in the United States that has suffered so much from oppression as the Mormons of Utah. Born and reared under the despotic systems of Europe, frugality, industry and obedience became a part of their nature, and admirably fitted them to wear the yoke of Brigham Young and his scheming, unprincipled Yankee oligarchy. It is claimed that this same Brigham Young has benefited them, improved their condition and made them a prosperous people. But we fail to see wherein he has made such improvement. The natural advantages offered by the United States to the oppressed millions of Europe have induced an immense immigration to our shores, and through the workings of an organization which ables heads than his perfect-ed, he has been enabled to reap a share of the benefits of this spontaneous immigration and gather about him a large colony of foreigners who make up the mass of the Mormon people.

Of late they have prospered, everything has been favorable for such progress. As soon as they had made themselves farms and commenced to raise a surplus an army was sent out from the States, a stage line was opened through their country, mines of gold and silver were discovered on every side, all of which created for them a ready and profitable market for all they raised.

With all these advantages combined with their industrious and frugal habits the people of Utah have attained a fair degree of prosperity, but far below that enjoyed by the same class of foreigners who have settled in the Northwestern States where they found the land cold and damp, covered with stubborn forests, and where grain was worth only fifty or sixty cents per bushel and all other products in proportion.

We have traveled among both classes and at first noted the difference with some degree of surprise, but when we became conversant with the extortions of the Polygamous Oligarchy, fourteen-fifteenths of whom are keen, unprincipled Yankees, while nine-tenths of their toiling subjects are foreigners, we were no longer surprised.

Where can the same number of people be found in any other section of the globe who have contributed so liberally the means to gratify the beastly sensuality of such a clique of leeches as the Church leaders of Utah? The cripple who is beguiled to this Territory with the expectation of finding within its borders renewed health, happiness and prosperity, is ground to the earth, while the bread is taken from the mouths of the destitute widow and orphan to enable these insatiable monsters to luxuriate in elegant idleness.

No people could have prospered with such a mill-stone about their necks, but for the immense advantages afforded by the natural resources of this section of the country, and we fervently hope that the day is not far distant when the people of Utah will be freed from this exacting, avaricious aristocracy, and attain that degree of prosperity to which their industry and frugality so richly entitles them.

INDIAN TROUBLES ON THE OWYHEE MAIL ROUTE.—The following telegram, says the Reese River Herald, was received on the 24th ult. from Star City, by the Humboldt Register:

The Idaho mail rider from Dunsmuir to this place arrived here at midnight, bringing no mail. Brought news that the Indians had killed a man, either a mail rider or station keeper, at Summit Springs, on the Owyhee road, 25 miles beyond Camp McDermitt. They had also attacked the station at Rebel Creek, 30 miles beyond Willow Point Station, Paradise Valley, and had the station-keeper carried in his cabin, where he was defending himself at the last accounts. The Indians were trying to smoke him out by filling the chimney with hay, setting fire to it, and then covering the top. The station-keeper was working at the time of the attack.

Hill, Beachey writes from Willow Springs, on the Owyhee road, under date of August 23d:

J. D. Carr—Dear Sir: The Indians have killed one man at Summit Springs; are raising hell generally, below Willow Springs and Camp McDermitt.

Pendleton in accepting the nomination approved the action of the Philadelphia National Union Convention, and said the result of the war had decided the doctrine of secession, and the Southern people, by action of their State Conventions and by the unanimous declaration of the delegates at Philadelphia, have abandoned it as a rule of political organization.

The institution of slavery was also involved in the conflict of arms, and it too, under the action of the Southern States, had passed away forever. Philadelphia, Sept. 5.

The Convention was called to order by Gen. Speed in the Chair. Numerous resolutions were offered by delegations in favor of negro suffrage. Other resolutions were introduced opposed to the interference with the policy of Congress.

Mr. Moss, of Virginia, addressed the Convention in favor of adopting measures to insist that Congress shall provide for the enfranchisement of the blacks.

Mr. Moss offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Resolutions to provide for conferring suffrage on all citizens without regard to color.

Motions were made to lay the resolutions on the table and to adjourn, which were lost.

Finally a call was made for the previous question, and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

Great excitement prevailed during the debate.

Mr. Thomas, of Maryland, said, if the resolution was adopted, he would be in favor of enfranchising every Rebel in Maryland.

This was received with hisses and was followed by much confusion.

A delegate announced that he understood the Committee on Resolutions and Address would not be prepared to report until to-morrow morning, and moved to adjourn till 10 a. m. to-morrow.

Mr. Thomas, of Maryland, made a personal explanation as to his remark on negro suffrage, which had been misunderstood so far as voting to enfranchise the Rebels; he would not do it to help him God.

Mr. Smithers, of Delaware, Chairman of the Committee, announced that arrangements had been made for proceedings, to-night, at the Union League House for Northern and Southern delegations in regard to a mass meeting.

The Convention adjourned at 1 p. m. until 10 a. m. to-morrow.
